Statement of authorship, best practices and cession of rights

Management reminds the manuscript authors that content must be original and not previously published in any medium. Content which has already been partially or totally published, or is under consideration in any other journal will only be accepted if the reason for such duplication is certified and the original source is cited. Based on evaluation reports, the Editorial Committee will decide if such work is republished or not.

The undersigned authors must be those individuals who have contributed to conceiving, designing and preparing the work, as well as contributing to acquiring the data, interpreting results and drafting and revising the work.

The principal author of the proposed manuscript must fill in the form below. At the end is a sheet to be signed by all co-authors. It is the task of the principal author to collect the co-authors' signatures on this sheet. Failing this s/he will attach as many copies of the signature sheet as required in order to include all of the authors' signatures. These sheets will then be attached to the completed form.

When sending the proposed manuscript to the journal, this form must be duly completed and attached.

Before proposing the publication of a work, authors must consult the author's guidelines of the journal to which the manuscript is to be submitted.

In order to ensure the originality of the content they publish, all the journals managed by Editorial Universidad de Sevilla are evaluated by Turnitin.

Turnitin finds matches and similarities between the texts submitted for evaluation and those previously published in other sources. All manuscripts submitted will be revised with this checking tool.
